STATUS AND IMPACTS OF HIV/AIDS IN AGRICULTURAL UNIVERSITIES AND COLLEGES IN AFRICA

By

Alice M. Ennals and Estrellita C. Rauan

Noragric Report No. 6
February 2002

Noragric
Agricultural University of Norway
The Centre for International Environment and Development Studies, Noragric, is the international gateway for the Agricultural University of Norway’s (NLH) twelve departments, associated research institutions and the Norwegian College of Veterinary Medicine in Oslo. Established in 1986, Noragric’s contribution to international development lies in the interface between research, education (MSc and PhD programmes) and assignments.

Noragric Reports present findings from various studies and assignments, including programme appraisals and evaluations.

This Noragric Report was commissioned by the Norwegian Agency for Development Cooperation (NORAD) to Noragric.

Extracts from this publication may only be reproduced after prior consultation with the employer of the assignment (NORAD) and with the consultant team leader (Noragric).
ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

The authors wish to give special acknowledgement to the following that contributed to the study:

University and college staff:

Dr. M. Haile, M.
Mekelle University College, Ethiopia

Dr. E.E. Waugh
Botswana College of Agriculture, Botswana

Ms. L. Kalenga Maliro
Bunda College of Agriculture, Malawi

Ms. P. Noungane
University of Fort Hare, South Africa

Dr. A. Lwoga
Sokoine University of Agriculture, Tanzania

Dr. J. Kabagozsa
Makerere University, Uganda

Phd and MSc students from partner universities and colleges enrolled at Management of Natural Resources and Sustainable Agriculture (MSc programme), Noragric and the Department of Economics and Social Sciences departments at the Agricultural University of Norway, NLH:

Abraham, Yonathan Beyene; Alemu, Alene Tesfamichael; Ally, Milazani Mursali; Arague, Tewodros; Bukenya, Mohamed; Dìtìro, Gosalamang; Gebresìlassì, Bisràt Taye; Gebreyesus, Regina Medhane; Guddissa, Atlabache Mekonnen; Hagos, Fitsum; Ignace, Shengena Cletus; Kaitirra, Loyce Murusuri; Kengera, Zabron Alphxad; Keyemba, Paul; Lemiso, Desta Kedir; Mathumu, Itani; Melles, Eden Fessahaie; Msangemno, Daudi Joachim; Mwesiga, Paskazia Joseph; Nyombi, Kenneth; Okbasillaissie, Mahari Tikabo; Qongqo, Luvo; Seabo, Gemma Minkie; Wayessa, Gutu Olana and Zuze, Claudia Sos

Special acknowledgement is also given to those organising (Mabel, Caroline and Ebby) the important AWSE Workshop on HIV/AIDS in Nairobi in December 2001, and facilitating NLH participation. This meeting was a very important chance to share information and to get insight that proved very useful for this study.