

Location

The event will take place in the Campus of the Faculty of Sciences and Technology of the New University of Lisbon, located in Monte da Caparica, near Lisbon, which has very good conditions to host this type of event and where students can benefit from a very nice university atmosphere. The campus is located mid-way between Lisbon city and the seaside, making it a very pleasant destination.

The campus has a students' residence and direct access by public transportation from Lisbon, by train and a surface metro line that will be operating in 2006. There are several options for meals services inside the campus. The campus has a very good offer of rooms for seminars and workshops, where all necessary logistic requirements can be arranged.
